Lockdown Lament

The Covid is raging, my life is a mess I live in pyjamas and don't have to dress I'm in isolation, just staying at home And would give my last pound to be free to roam

I'm seriously at risk, (or that's what they say) Telling me to stay in and not go out each day. In my head I'm so young though my licence reveals I'm a 70 plus senior (but that's not how it feels)

When I run out of food and deliveries are late I have to buy groceries between 7 and 8 So early in the morning I head out to restock And discover a line up that winds round the clock

Social distancing seniors all 6 feet away I'm last in the line of heads all bald or grey. My meals are repetitive (A lot like my gas) And I'm tired of discussing why Boris is an ass

My latest new outfit is gloves and a mask And I'm starting to wonder if I'm up to this task, I wash all my groceries, all fruit meat and veg... Will this added precaution tip me over the edge?

My beautiful brown hair has wide roots of grey No hairdressers around to help wash them away. I've been talking to myself, now I'm answering back Is it Monday or Friday I've really lost track.

I've stopped doing housework, it's weeks since I dusted And I know without visitors I'll never get busted. I FaceBook my friends or we group chat on Zoom And try to pretend we're all in the same room

Thank God liquor stores are considered 'essential' Without daily drinks this would drive us all mental Every once in a while it's good to reflect On what this all means and what we can expect.

It's a time to be grateful for all that we've got Like warm house and food that others have not. The bottom line here by the time this all ends Is that we'll all get through it with family and friends

So even if your partner is a bit of a grump You can be grateful that you're not married to Trump! Supplied by M&M

From The Archives Allara News 2004 We're English

Goodbye to my England! So long my old friend! Your days are now numbered, being brought to an end. To be Scottish, Irish or Welsh, that's just fine But don't say you're English that's way out of line.

The French and the Germans may call themselves such, As may Norwegians, the Swedes and the Dutch: You can say you are Russian, or may be a Dane, But don't say you're English ever again.

At Broadcasting House the word is taboo, In Brussels they have scrapped it, in Parliament too. Even schools are affected, staff do as they are told, They mustn't teach children about the England of old.

We are not European, how can we be? Europe is miles away, over the sea. We're the English from England, let us all be proud -Stand up and be counted - shout it out loud!

Let's tell the Government - and Brussels too -We're proud of our heritage and the Red White and Blue. Fly the flag of St. George or the Union Jack. Let the world know - We Want Our England Back!

This award is allocated to those individuals who adopt those speech manerisms that want you tear out what's left of your hair and wish the wrath of The Almighty to be brought down on the heads of these perpretrators. 1) The Charge of the 'Like' Brigade:

Like when they tell you something, like they need to inject 'like' into every other sentence like so you know like what they are like refering to. More often than not I don't at all like what they are on about..

2) You know the 'You Knows'

You know these types who have to add 'you know' between sentences. Why bother to tell me something if you think I alrteady know it?

3) The Abominable 'T' and 'G' Droppers. A typical example being - "I was goin' to tell you somethin' but I've forgo''en wha' I was goin' to say, but it mus' 'ave bin qui'e imor'ant yeah? OK, I know that we are not all perfect, but surely stringing a few legible sentences together is not that difficult. Put Slovenly Speech in the Sin Bin! Niggled Nigel
